

Your Letter of Offer

Borrower: SHANE PHONSE SCHLEGER

Product: NAB Personal Loan

Loan term: 4 years

Offer date: 12 August 2026

Here's our offer for you.

It is important to read fully before you accept.

You'll need to read this document alongside your Credit Contract General Terms for Personal Loans (General Terms) for this product as together they contain all the terms and conditions of the credit contract we're offering you. This letter of offer and the General Terms form your contract. They also form the pre-contractual statement we must give you before you can agree to a contract with us. Some key words used in this document are explained in your General Terms. The information in this agreement is correct as at the offer date. You can accept this offer in the way indicated in the Acceptance letter provided with this letter of offer.

Changes that NAB can make

Without your consent, we could change:

- the amount of credit (however we will not increase it except at your request or with your consent);
- the interest rate(s) (including any margin, and the name and description of any indicator rate), except where your interest rate is fixed for a period in which case, we will not change that rate during that period the amount, method of calculation, type and frequency or time for payment of a credit fee or charge (including introducing new credit fees and changes); or

- the amount, method of calculation, number, frequency, or time for payment of any repayments.

The General Terms explain how and when we will give notice for these changes

Other Information

Enforcement expenses	Enforcement expenses may become payable under this contract if you are in default.
Insuring your loan	You do not have consumer credit insurance for this loan.
Repayment adjustment	Your interest rate that applies on the settlement date may be different to the rate set out in this letter of offer. If this happens, you and we agree that your repayment amounts will immediately change to reflect the amount required to pay out the total owing by the end of the loan term and we'll confirm any adjusted amount to you as soon as practicable.
Commissions paid by NAB	NAB will pay commission to the providers of third-party personal loan comparison sites where the credit application was received through their site. The amount of the commission is not ascertainable.
